

House calls bring the Jewish Holiday of Sukkot to the St. Charles homebound

Rabbi Chaim Landa, who, together with his wife Bassy, directs the Chabad Jewish Center of St. Charles County, helps a Jewish individual recite the blessings on the “Sukkah on Wheels” in St. Charles County. In an effort to bring the Jewish fall harvest traditions safely to those isolated by the coronavirus, the Chabad Jewish Center of St. Charles County built a “Sukkah on Wheels,” a temporary shelter where Jews gather to celebrate Sukkot, in the back of a U-Haul pickup, making house calls each day during the weeklong festival to Jewish families throughout St. Charles County.

Habitat for Humanity of St. Charles County kicks off Frame the Future Gala

Habitat for Humanity of St. Charles County is building on its annual countywide holiday tradition by launching Frame the Future, an initiative in which individuals, businesses and organizations can play a critical role in the continuing efforts to create quality, affordable homes where families partner, build and buy.

A free, virtual Frame the Future Gala will be held Nov. 14, at 6 p.m. Art Holliday, the award-winning journalist who has served for 40 years at KSDK-TV, the NBC affiliate in St. Louis, Missouri, will be honorary chairman of the event. The veteran news anchor and sports reporter was raised in St. Charles. In addition, the Rotary Club of St. Charles is a presenting sponsor.

Habitat for Humanity of St. Charles County has hosted an annual holiday gala for two decades. In recognition of this anniversary, the evening features a “Roaring 20th” theme.

Frame the Future Gala – how to participate virtually

- To bid on raffle baskets in the silent auction or on holiday trees, wreaths and tree toppers, individuals must first register at www.hfhgala.org. There is no charge to register.
- The Frame the Future Gala is free and open to the public. To view the event virtually on Facebook the evening of Nov. 14, visit habitatstcharles.org. However, to actively participate, individuals must register at www.hfhgala.org.

All proceeds from the Frame the Future Gala directly benefit Habitat for Humanity of St. Charles County to continue its mission to bring people together to build hope, homes and communities and increase the number of families it serves in St. Charles County.

“In these unprecedented times, the importance of having a decent, affordable home is more important now than ever,” said Michelle Woods, executive director, Habitat for Humanity of St. Charles County. “By supporting the Frame the Future event and initiative, donors can help local families get one step closer to a home.”
